Monitoring the state of workplace HEPA promotion: An example from Finland

The Employee Exercise Barometer has been conducted almost biannually since 2002. The data is collected by interviewing a sample of employees and employers on how HEPA is promoted in their workplaces.

The monitoring shows that HEPA has been supported in most workplaces over the years with the increasing monetary investment. However, there are severe gaps in the systematic planning and evaluation of the implementation.

Join the 45-minute webinar to learn more about how the Barometer is being carried out; what are the key findings from 2017 and how the findings are being utilized in Finnish workplace HEPA promotion.
